Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

Year after year in Nevada City and throughout the United States loyal and charitable citizens contribute to the Red Cross. It is an institution usually symbolized by the figure of a compassionate and intelligent young nurse, the little mother of all those in distess. The Red Cross does a good job in great or small emergencies, when the elements break loose and fire, flood or earthquake humble the proud race that rules the earth.

Usually Red Cross contributors receive reports of relief administered in distant placse, the Johnstown flood, the Mississippi's vast inundation of farms and cities, and coming nearer home, the San Francisco and Los Angeles earthquakes, but at length, for perhaps the first time in the history of Nevada City, we have occasion to see how quickly and efficiently the Red Cross goes into action when disaster strikes our next door neighbor in Sierra County.

Downieville was flooded late Friday afternoon. Approximately 125 persons were made homeless in the course of ten or fifteen minutes when the debris backing up against the new highway bridge caused the two rivers at their junction to swirl through the historic little mountain town. Fortunate it was that the new bridge, or part of it, finally gave way and let the flood pass.

It was Sunday morning, hardly 36 hours later when the president of the Nevada City Red Cross Unit, Frank Finnegan started trucks rolling with all needed supplies to Downieville. A committee was formed there to distribute clothing, bedding and fuel, the three principal needs of the stricken city. It was all done quickly by volunteer relief workers and Nevada City folks for the first time probably have seen the Red Cross at work. Incidentally, Nevada City has been asked to contribute $150 as its quota toward relief work that must be done as the result of floods in eight different counties, of which Sierra is but one. President Finnegan has accepted the quota, and of course, this community will cheerfully raise the sum as it always does.

Instead of the several experiments, which the New Deal has made to lift this country out of the big depression, we shall always feel that a mistake was made in not treating the depression as an emergency, the same as an earthquake or flood. Throughout the United States, as has been proven time and again there are thousands of people who have the time and the inclination to work for the Red Cross. If these people of good character and high ideals had been chosen to administer relief during the depression, as they have done for many years in lesser disasters, we fell certain they would have done a better job of it, than the federal government has done, would have received millions in Red Cross subscriptions and have maintained that attitude of generous charity, which all patriotic citizens feel toward the Red Cross, an attitude which has steadily declined since the government itself has undertaken work formerly done voluntarily by its citizens.

We may return to Red Cross, with or without government subsidy. Signs and portents at the moment are not reassuring. When President Roosevelt declared just before his last election, that our return to prosperity, that then seemed assured, was the result of planning on the part of this administration, he was boasting too soon. Various factors that refuse to work with other planned factors, have apparently, (no one can be sure) upset the New Deal planning. At a time when we should be digesting and accommodating ourselves to the many innovations which the New Deal has made in our lives, at a time when we should take stock and apply remedial measures there necessary to correct the faults of the New Deal, we see Congress involving us in more costly and vaster experiments, some of them of doubtful legality.

So, if, as now seems quite possible, we are heading into another depression, (euphoneously termed a recession by the New Dealers) it may well be that we shall come to a time when the Red Cross will assume the relief function and the Federal government, with its parasitic brass hats headed by the rattle-brained Harry Hopkins, will retire from the scene of its enormous and costly failure. For those in need of relief today are conservatively estimated to number 10,000,000. This is but a million or so less than when unemployment was at its peak in 1933.

Four Cities to Play Santa Claus to Kiddies Robbed by Yuba Flood

All the good things that Santa Claus had stored away for the Downieville children were washed down the Yuba river in the big flood last Friday.

Nevada City, Grass Valley, Auburn and Marysville service clubs and chambers of commerce are uniting to remedy this sad accident that happened to the Downieville children. It is on the suggestion of the Downieville relief committee stself, that the four towns will contribute enough funds to guarantee the kiddies in the historic old mining town a real Christmas. The event will take place next Tuesday evening.

Meeting with A. N. Newell and Loyal Freeman of Grass Valley last evening in Nevada City hall, DeWitt Nelson of the chamber, Horace Curnow of the Rotary club, W. H. Griffith, chamber secretary, Frank Finnegan, and H. M. Leete, Nevada City's share in this plan was discussed. There are not more than 100 children in Downieville and vicinity and it was believed that to raise a sufficient fund for giving twenty five of these a bang-up Christmas party would not be a difficult task.

Accordingly a plea was issued to all those who wish to contribute to the Downieville children's Christmas tree fund, to leave their offerings today in the Nevada City Nugget or Morning Union offices or the Bank of America with Horace Curnow.

Saturday morning in the bank there will be a table placed in the lobby with a young woman in charge, to accept contributions to this Downieville Christmas fund. These contributions have nothing whatever to do with the Red Cross special quota which is now nearly completed, in fact of the $150 quota, $139 had been contributed last night.

Those who wish to make the trip to Downieville next Tuesday evening, the night of the big event for the Downieville kiddies, are requested to register with Horace Curnow at the bank. Each city contributing to this Christmas event in Downieville is expected to put on a brief entertainment. Singers and instrumentalists are cordially invited to volunteer.

Flooded Downieville Being Rehabilitated

Victor Cassidy, editor of the Mountain Mesesenger at Downieville, was in Nevada City yesterday and gave a first hand account of the flood disaster that happened a week ago on Friday afternoon. Incidentally his newspaper issue for Saturday a little delayed because of the flood, was rolled off the press Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Cassidy who went to Downieville as the bride of the young publisher two years ago very nearly was swept down the river when it rose in Durgan Flat in front of their residence. August Costa, himself pretty well afloat caught her, and the two floated down where Vic could catch Costa with one hand, keeping the other fast to fence and finally drew them both to safety.

Cassidy declares that the damage will be much over $500,000. In the home of Homer Gould, alone, he states, there was stored antique furniture that was probably worth upward of $50,000. This house and contents went down the roaring Yuba. An antique piano, valued at $500, stored in the telephone office belonging to Mrs. Mary Ellison, was also washed away. The Costa Grocery lost over $2,000 in stock, and M. F. Lusk places his loss in tools, building wrecked, and equipment at $30,000. The Herrera drug store places its loss at around $1,000. M. F. Fisher's grocery store damage is estimated at $5,000.

A big Indian w,ho among others, was released from the jail in the county court house, when it looked for a time as if all of Downieville would roll down the Yuba, saved the life of Bill Mills.

It is now generally conceded that it was Joe Nipp's house carried down stream against the old Jersey bridge that caused that structure to give way and lodge against the new concrete highway bridge.

Cassidy states that the spike camp of 50 CCC boys is doing a great work in helping in the clean up and that the Red Cross supplies which left this city Sunday have been distributed and that for the time being there is no hardship. Highway crews and people who awarmed into the town over the cable suspended across Goodyear creek, had to be accomodated in some fashion and many of them were given lodging in private homes.

The Goodyear creek bridge hurriedly thrown across the creek where the old span was washed out, has been completed and once more vehicular traffic flows into Downieville.

FORTUNA PROPERTY

It is expected several weeks will be required to dewater the 419 foot Fortuna shaft south of Nevada City's city limits, taken over recently by J. M. Hoff and George R. Carter for mining interests. The shaft is in poor condition and retimbering and repairs must be made as dewatering progresses. The work has gone beyond the 100 foot depth. Plans are to explore the lower levels.

White Christmas Celebration Today

A beautiful Christmas tree, fully lighted, stands in the Native Daughters plot east of the Alpha hardware store and a program will be held there celebrating "White Christmas" at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon. Pupils from both high and grammar schools will leave their school houses at 2:00 o'clock and march to the tree. A treat of music is in store for all who attend. This White Christmas is a holiday of cheer and each shuit-in will be contacted also. Any donations or cash or articles as gifts can be left at the tree or at either newspaper office.

Committee chairmen were as follows: Mrs. A. M. Hoge, Jr., who most artistically decorated the cartons; Mrs. Beverley Barron and Mrs. Robinson.

The art class of the high school decorated boxes for the occasion and they are lovely. And an important item to all children Mrs. W. P. Lee has interviewed Santa Claus and he has promised to arrive at 3:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Hal Draper is in charge of distribution of gifts to bring cheer. Mrs. C. M. Gwin with the aid of the Camp Fire Girls have sacked 500 bags of candy for the children who march in the long parades. Mrs. H. M. Leete was in charge of lighting the tree. Mrs. DeWitt Nelson and Mrs. W. P. Lee were general chairmen.

GRASS VALLEY HIGH SCHOOL IS ON PROBATION

Yesterday morning Principal Spies on behalf of the Grass Valley student body applied to the board of managers of the C. I. F. through telephone communication, for reconsideration of the case of the Grass Valley high school being suspended from the C. I. F. Late in the afternoon Mr. Spies received word from Homer Toms, secretary of the board of managers that Grass Valley had been reinstated on a probationary basis and that the terms and conditions of the probation would be definitely defined at the meeting of the board to be held in January.

The basketball bames between the Nevada City and Grass Valley high schools A and B basket ball teams will be held this evening as scheduled. They will be held in the Nevada City high school gymnasium and will begin at 7:30 o'clock. The B team game will be played off first.

School authorities received the information Wednesday that the Grass Valley high school has been suspended from the C. I. F. (California Interscholastic Federation) as a result of a raid on the Nevada City high school on November 10 the eve of the scheduled football game between Grass Valley and Nevada City high schools. Yellow paint was spattered widely over the exterior walls of the Nevada City high school and large letters were painted in conspicuous places.

Article 17 of the C. I. F. rules states that "any school which has engaged in any unsportsmanlike conduct, especially painting or otherwise destroying property by students or alumnae, before or after an athletic contest will be punished by suspension from the league for one year or until the board of managers sees fit to permit the school to reenter the league.' It was under this ruling that the board of managers of the northern section of the C. I. F., after due consideration, suspended the Grass Valley high school from the C. I. F. They will not be permitted to participate in any practice or league competition in any type of sport until they have been reinstated by the board of managers.

Principal H. E. Kjorlie of the Nevada City high school when interviewed yesterday morning stated, "It is most regrettable that this particular situation has arisen because we have for so many years experienced a very wholesome and friendly spirit of rivalry with Grass Valley. The entire faculty and student body of Nevada City high school is very hopeful that the better citizens of the two schools and communities will put forth every effort to curb such occurances in the future."

QUICK RESPONSE TO RED CROSS APPEAL

Frank Finnegan president of the Nevada City Red Cross unit stated yesterday that of the $150 quota assigned Nevada City for the relief of victims of flood conditions, not only in Downieville but in eight northern California counties, was being rapidly contributed. At noon yesterday more than $100 had been deposited in the bank toward this quota.

OUSTOMAH LODGE

Tuesday evening the Auburn degree team visited Oustomah Lodge, No. 16, 1. O. O. F. and exemplified the second degree on two candidates. After the lodge meeting a turkey banquet was enjoyed at Schreibers Cafe. There were about 35 visitors.

M. E. Roberts will be the presiding officer of Oustomah Lodge during the coming term, commencing Jaunary 1. He will be assisted by Alfred Netz as vice grand; J. Pascoe, recording secretary, J. W. Darke, treasurer, and E. L. Towle, trustee.

Mine Employment In County Increases

Mine employment in Nevada county shows a small increase over last month, in today's survey of the industry. There are now 2,583 men at work in the mines as compared with 2,566. in November and the payroll has mounted to $387,450 per month.

The chief development of the past month has been resumption of work on a number of placer mines, and an increase in the forces of those already employed. Placers which have resumed operations, that the abundant rains make possible, are the Deer Creek, Peri and Hayley and the Penn Dredge company.

A winze is being sunk from the lowest or 9,000 foot level in the North Star in Grass Valley. In the Murchie mine in Nevada City, plans are reported for sinking a winze an additional 100 feet and cutting a station on the 2400 foot level.

From Redding comes the report that Newmont mine interests have purchased three Shasta properties, the Niagara, the Milkmaid and the Washington.

Lava Cap in the Nevada City area has slightly increased its working forces. Omega, placer, has added ten men to its crew. Great Northern on the Bloomfield road and Stockton Hill, south of Grass Valley, have also added to the number of men employed.

THOMAS COLE INTERESTS

The Oakland grammar school district of Gold Flat has recently sold the mineral rights under the school property to the Thomas Cole interests. This property, is in the center of a large block of land under option to the Cole group in the Gold Flat area south of Nevada City which includes the New England mine and extends from the Mountaineer group through Gold Flat to the Gracey-Glencoe holdings. Attorney Ward Sheldon of Nevada City represents his uncle, Thomas Cole and other interests taking over the large tract of land.

SHELTER FOR EQUIPMENT

About two weeks ago Supervisor Cary Arbogast completed a 32 by 56 foot building at the foot of Sugar Loaf grade at Nevada City's northern limits on the Lake Vera road to house road equipment. It will house equipment for his district when not in use. In the past equipment had to

MOTHER HEARS FIRST WORD OF WANDERING SON

Through the generous action of Officer Charles Ninnis, a mother in Altoona, Pennsylvania, who had not seen or heard of her son since August, for the first time received a card from him, as it happened, a Christmas card.

Douglass Kustaborder, 18 years old, disappeared from his home in Pennsylvania on August 11. He appeared about ten days ago in Nevada City and applied to Ninnis for a night's lodging in the city jail. The next morning Ninnis took the lad to his home, where Mrs. Ninnis cooked him a hearty ham and egg breakfast, and Mr. Ninnis outfitted with a pair of practically new shoes, a sweater and some woolen shirts. The boy chopped a little kindling wood after these gifts had been bestowed, but Mrs. Ninnis was concerned he had a mother who had not, from the boy's story, heard from him since he left home. She gave him a Christmas card and commanded the lad to write his mother. He did this and yesterday from Altoona, Pennsylvania, came a letter thanking the Ninnis family for all they had done for their son, and beseeching them to place her in touch with her boy. Unfortunately this was impossible, for the derelict son had drifted to parts unknown in the intervening time.

ROTARY TOLD OF INTERNATIONAL SCOUT JAMBOREE

Sam Partridge, one of the Scouts who was a delegate from Grass Valley and the Tahoe Scout area to the National Scout Jamboree in Washington, D. C. and the International Jamboree in Holland, was the speaker at yesterday's luncheon of the Nevada City Rotary club.

H. M. Leete, president of the club, broached the subject of Rotary participation in the proposed plan under which Marysville, Auburn, Grass Valley and Nevada City should contribute $100 each for a Christmas tree and entertainment of Downieville children. Since the Chambers of Commerce of Grass Valley and Nevada City are now engaged in raising a fund, aside from that of the Red Cross, for relief in Downieville it was decided that committee, of which Horace Curnow was named chairman, should get in touch with the chamber committees of the two cities, and if the Christmas tree project is approved provide that a part of such funds be devoted to that purpose.

Young Partridge gave an interesting account of his experiences with the group of Scouts numbering eight from the district which attended both the national and international jamborees. There were 23 countries represented at National jamboree and at the international event there were over forty. More than 800 scouts from Scotland attended the latter. These wore their kilts and put on what was perhaps the most spectacular show of the encampment, giving folk dances in their kilts to the music of the bagpipes. Polish Scouts staged a formal wedding and Belgian Scouts put on a play. Sundays thousands of visitors visited the camp in Holland. After the jamboree was over the boys dispersed on various trips. The boys from this region visited Germany, Switzerland, France and England.

Ahdenah Camp Fire Girls met at the home of Mrs. C. M. Gwin Wednesday afternoon and filled candy bags for the White Christmas. A program and distribution of the tiny gifts will take place this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

The Week

By H. M. L. Jr.

The latest "profound apology" from Japan is now extant. The American gunboat, Panay, was bombed and sunk last Sunday on the Yangtse river, about twelve miles above Nanking. Long columns in the newspapers tell of a profusion of Japanese regrets, of their aid to the survivors, and of promises of reparation. A couple of big sore thumbs stick up amid this soothing welter of Nipponese suavity. A Japanese admiral admitted that both the government and the fliers who committed the outrage were aware that there were American and other foreign vessels in the vicinity under attack. In the face of this fact, we have the damning admission of the senior officer of the offensive, Colonel Hasimoto, who admitted that he had orders "to fire on every ship in the river." Testimony of the Panay survivors indicates that Japanese river boats attacked the Panay with machine gun fire from near the shore while the American flag was in plain sight. From these facts we see that the Japanese ordered indiscriminate mass attack on the river traffic even though they were aware of the presence of the foreign boats in the area. In the case of the Panay, it seems likely that at least some of the attackers were actually aware of her identity as an American gunboat.

The Nipponese were very prompt indeed with their apologies. It almost seems as though the cagey little saffron officers had foreseen the inevitable accident, and prepared the apologies beforehand. The Panay incident is an example of the recklessness and vicious, insulting disregard of foreign rights by Japan's armed forces.

President Roosevelt communicated to Japanese Ambassador Saito that he was "deeply shocked and concerned by the indiscriminate mass bombings on the Yangtse and that he requests that the emperor be advised. He also demanded that (a) The Japanese government make a formal apology and (b) indemnify the United States completely (c) present to the U. S. Government their plans for guaranteeing the future safety of Americans in China. The last three demands have already been answered by foreign minister Koki Hiroto in a note to Ambassador Grew in Tokio. The note expressed the sincere regret of the government, their complete willingness to pay all reparations demanded by the United States.

The proud little Orientals find the President's request that the emperor himself be informed, a very bitter pill to swallow. In Japan, the emperor has the position of a demi-god. He is held aloof from politics and foreign relations. He is, however, the supreme head of the army and navy.

President Roosevelt requested that the emperor be notified over the heads of the actual military authorities because he rightly believed that the Japanese militarists were not sufficiently responsible and should be called to answer by the highest authority. This unprecedented request will impress on the Japanese government the strength of the American attitude toward the grave offense.

If the Japanese authorities refuse to notify the Mikado of the President's attitude, a very serious situation will arise The Japanese method of trying to frighten foreign interests out of China by indiscriminately bombing them has sorely exasperated our government.

Repeated outrages have been followed by ready apology until the administration can no longer accept the apologies as having value. It is obvious that in this instance the Japanese government and people are sincerely sorry. The government has accepted responsibility, apologized and issued "strict orders" to prevent a recurrence of the incident. In Japan huge parades celebrating the Nanking victory were cancelled when news of the Panay incident was broadcast. Japanese civilians, hat in hand, stop Americans on the street and call on them in thir businss offices to express their deep regret.

A national salute to the American flag and military honors for the Panay are being considered. The people could hardly do more. It remains to be seen whether the Japanese will swallow President Roosevelt's strongest medicine and involve the Mikado in the unpleasant situation.

The Panay incident, serious and aggravating as it is, is not serious enough to warrant war. The Japanese military authorities will be wise to swallow their pride for their own best interests and concede our President's every request. If they do not, and one serious situation leads to another, they may find themselves being presented with enough American high explosives to blow all them and their little islands into Davey Jones' locker.

Just Wonderin'

I wonder why the poets write
Rare odes to warm, pulsative June,
And then compose sweet rondelays
To that pale, cold, dead disk, the moon;
I wonder why they sing of Peace
And laud her calm, effulgent star,
And then indite wild, stirring hymns
To that arch fiend, the god of war.

I wonder why poets are so consistently inconsistent; still, poets are people, and it's manifestly unfair to expect more of them than of other peculiar specimens of our human kind.

I wonder why we are all so consistent just now; during the yule-tide season we seem to grasp the meaning of the Golden Legend and become responsive to the angelic message, "Peace on earth, good will to men". We read the Christmas Carol and under its benign influence go forth to walk gently among the hearts of our fellow men. We are kind and considerate, helpful and forgiving. Old dreams awaken, lost ideals beckon; until at times, we catch entrancing glimpses of "that far off, divine event to which the whole world hasteneth."

I wonder what life would be, if the spirit which is so potent from Christmas to New Years, could lead us on from New Years to Christmas.

I wonder if San Francisco's water front workers are running out of excuses for striking. Here are a few suggestions which may prove useful; there is a broken plank on pier number twenty one. One ship is using foreign made rat traps. The captain uses a Japanese tea set. The radio develops static during storms at sea. The ship's carpenter looks like Stalin. And so far on into the year.

I wonder who started this present day craze for research work; here's old single tax staring us in the face again, and we hadn't even thought of it for many a day.

I wonder if Mr. Landon isn't making some very useful suggestions these days. A gradual retirement of certain party leaders in favor of new and masterful ones, might aid mightily in bringing the Grand Old Party back in 1940.

I wonder if Spain's civil war will remain at home now that other nations are withdrawing troops and simply furnishing war materials, food, clothing, etc. I understand that England is demanding cash payments for all supplies furnished to the warring factions—why didn't we think of that expedient during the late world war?

MINERS FOUNDRY MAKES SEVERAL MINE MILLS

The Miners Foundry of this city has had another busy month and the following large orders were noted this week:

A 50 ton mill was sold to the Bigelow mine at Sierra City. The foundry crews have practically assembled the mill and it is expected it will be in running order in ten days if the weather permits.

An order for 15 two and a half ton side-dump ore cars is being gotten out for a mining company in the state of Nevada. These cars are much larger than the others which were one ton capacity.

Two Pendelton revolutionary mills of immense size are about completed for A. D. Hadsell of Forest Hill. The foundry has just completed a cyanide plant for the same company.

The foundry is building a 20 ton daily capacity rod mill for Mr. Ivey of Grass Valley who is opening up his own property near that city.

PENN DREDGING COMPANY

Engineer George Weaver of the Penn Dredging company states drill tests on banks of Deer Creek gravel are proving better than expected. The company took an option from the Mike Kendrick ranch west of Nevada City to Deer Creek falls a distance of about five miles along the stream. A dredger will be installed in January if tests prove satisfactory and another will be installed in July. Forty men will be employed on each dredge. The Deer Creek placer mining company gave options to the Penn Dredging Company on this ground. A. C. Innis holds the options.

CHRISTMAS TREE CROP OF FOREST SERVICE 50,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—Out of the great fir tree forests of California the other day stepped Paul Bunyan, legendary patron of the woods, to renew his annual agreement with old St. Nicholas who depends upon Paul to furnish Christmas trees for children from one to ninety years of age. Both gentlemen smilingly conceded that without the wares of the other, Christmas would not be like it used to be at home. So Paul agreed to have the trees ready and St. Ncik bargained to continue putting toys and gifts under the trees. With that, the contract was signed and sealed ,to become effective on Christmas morning, December 25.

From national forest rangers in this state comes word of the cutting of 50,000 Yule trees for the Christmas decoration of many happy homes. Perky, upright, full foliaged, and brgiht with colored lights and tinsel, the carefully selected Christmas tree will soon take its place in the customary corner or before the living room window. The growth of from 10 to 25 summer seasons is in the annual rings of the sturdy little tree. It probably is a silver tip red fir, or white fir, or maybe a Douglas fir from the northern forests—Abies magnifica, Abies concolor and Pseudotsuga taxifolia to tree lovers of botanical inclination.

There is a story within the bark of each little fir transformed into a Christmas tree. A tale of hardship in competition for surviving among other and larger trees, or or near death from raging forest fires or blight. Maybe, the silver tip has been cut as part of a yearly thinning of the forest; in this case the other trees which remain in the woods will quickly grasp the advantage of abundant space and sunshine and grow to maturity more rapidly than would have been possible had it not been for a Christmas tradition kept alive by Paul Bunyan and St. Nickolas.

Officials of the United States Forest Service in the California Region again have allowed the removal of Christmas trees in national forest areas which will not be harmed by the selective cutting activities of the tree dealers. Written permit and contract have been required of each dealer whose agent cut and sell the Christmas trees. Those who do not comply with Forest Servicce regulations violate state and federal laws.

The price which dealers pay for Christmas trees cut on federal land varies from 10 cents to 75 cents per tree depending upon the size and species. As from other forest revenues a part of the proceeds is returned by the Forest Service to the state for county schools and for the development and maintenance of roads and trails.

The Nevada City high school is preparing for Christmas. As is the custom the sophomores furnished the Christmas tree, the juniors decorated it and the freshmen will be the clean up committee. The seniors provide the assembly program. The entertainment will consist of a vocal solo by Bill Molthen, a musical trio by Vella Flindt, Melvin Clark and Phil Angove, a skit called "Impersonations," a monologue called "Poor Papa" by Cliff Hoff, a vocal trio by Alice Graham, Madge Pianezzi, and Sylvia Moody, and a play called "Hiram, Ezra and Mirandy" with Mary Martz, Melvin Clark and Phil Angove as the characters. Much amusement and enjoyment are expected at the high school next Friday.

STOCKTON HILL PROPERTY

Plans are to sink the 315 foot shaft an additional 1,000 feet and erect a mill at the Stockton Hill mine south of Grass Valley. It is stated enough ore is blocked out to keep a 50 ton daily capacity mill operating a year. The ledge of milling ore is four feet wide. W. R. Woock, president of the company, has ten men employed. Ben Hays, former owner, is also assisting in developing the property.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 16. — Construction on Shasta Dam, key unit of the great Central Valley Project, probably will be started next spring, Reclamation Commissioner John C. Page declared in a formal statement this week. The statement, issued during a special visit to California with Chief Reclamation Engineer R. F. Walter, disclosed significant behind-the-scenes progress. Page revealed a new railroad by-pass plan at the proposed Shasta dam site which would make possible erection of the giant dam at least two years earlier than heretofore expected. It involves the immediate boring of a temporary railroad tunnel under the west abutment of the dam in the Sacramento canyon near Redding, to permit construction of the dam itself to proceed simultaneously with relocation of 37 miles of the Southern Pacific's main line now located with in the reservoir site.

San Francisco contractors, Eaton & Smith, this week submitted a low bid of $306,500 for the interior work in the engineering shop and repair docks at the Sacramento Air Depot. Low bidder for installation of electrical work was the Reliable Elevator Works of Sacramento, bid being $107,200, and the Cory & Joslin Company of San Francisco submitted low bid, $59,783, for installation of heating and ventilating system.

Thousands of Californians each year, maimed, blind and deafened through industrial accidents and otherwise, are being educated in the trades and professions to which they are adaptable to become self-supporting, H. D. Hicker, Chief of the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation, revealed thsi week. California has ranked first among states carrying on such a campaign for the last two years. Hicker said that by this means of education it relieves the government and relatives of the burden of support of persons so afflictted. Training is given in public schools where the courses are available and in private schools where they are not.

Officials of the Works Progress administration indicated their approval of California's request for $700,000 to assist in building a new horse show coliseum at the State Fair Grounds, Robert Muckler, Secretary-Manager of the California State Fair, said. Muckler stated he was confident California will get part of the request, if not all, as much interest was manifest in the project.

A plan to publicize the wide program of studies offered by the Sacramento Junior College to attract 1,000 more students to attend, was announced by the Board of Education this week. It was stated that the Sacramento Junior College has mining and aeronautics departments better equipped than a junior college anywhere. Commendation also was given to other studies offered at the Junior College such as the Commercial and Art departments, the Music department with its a capella choir and many others.

LAVA CAP CONSTRUCTS DAM FOR TAILINGS

Tailings dam covering 5 acres of ground is being constructed at cost of $12,000 at Lava Cap Mines Company property, Nevada County, California. According to Otto E. Schiffner, general manager, Box 780, Nevada City, California, dam's construction was decided upon following notice from Pacific Gas and Electric Co. that present dam is inadequate and likely to pollute water used for domestic and irrigation purposes in Placer county following heavy run off of water during rainy months which carry the tailings with it.

Dam, to be completed by December 1, will be 25 feet high, height to be increased as needed. Dam is expected to hold the tailings from the 350 ton mill at Central mine of Lava Cap for 4 or 5 years.

New 300 HP hoist is practically complete at the Central shaft. Mill is also being increased by 50 tons to 350 tons daily capacity.

Approximately 250 men are employed by Lava Cap at its 2 properties, the Banner and the Central. —From Mining and Industrial News.

GOOD REASON TO REMOVE DECAYED POPLAR TREES

The proposed removal of the three poplar trees growing on Union Alley has provoked considerable argument for and against. This is inspired chiefly by the fact that for so many years the trees have contributed to the beauty of the park, maintained by the Native Daughters but which was recently donated to the Forest Service as a headquarters office site. DeWitt Nelson, supervisor of the Tahoe National Forest in commenting upon his permission for the removal states that he fully realizes and appreciates the sentiment that is attached to the trees, but that personal investigation satisfied him that the removal was in the interest of public safety.

For many years in order to retain the sidewalk clearance it has been necessary to keep the trees cut back on that side. This according to Nelson, has resulted in them becoming badly decayed at the base. In addition to the natural brittleness of the poplar wood has created a hazardous condition.

Nelson states that in any event it would be absolutely necessary for the trees to be removed prior to construction of the proposed headquarters building. While this project received a temporary set back on account of the restriction of the WPA program, coincident with the securing of title by the forest service, Nelson expects that ultimately funds will be provided for the building as planned.

SCOUT SALE OF XMAS TREES IS SUCCESSFUL

George Walling who is selling Christmas trees for the Boy Scouts on the lot west of the Alpha Stores, states fully 100 trees have been sold. About 50 more were brought in Wednesday evening and Mr. Walling states those who wish to buy them had better do so at once as they are selling rapidly.

Raymond D. Williamson, Grand Trustee of the Native Sons of the Golden West, jaid an official visit to Hydraulic parlor No. 56, N. S. G. W. on Tuesday evening. He delivered an impressive address, telling the members of the work and condition of the order throughout the state. Following the meeting a banquet was enjoyed at Gene's Cafe. Bill James presided at the banquet.

RESORT RIOTERS ARE ACCUSED OF BURGLARY

It developed yesterday in their preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Walter Mobley, that the three rioters who wrecked the Gold Nugget Inn last Sunday evening are alleged to have committed burglary during their evenings pleasantries.

The three, Otis Lee, B. T. Frary and Jack Jordan, when finally quelled and placed under arrest by Sheriff Tobiassen and his deputies, asked to be taken to their home in Grass Valley before being immured in the county jail. The sheriff granted the request and while there discovered some bottles of whiskey that they had taken from the Gold Nugget. This, however, was only incidental, for before they started their rough house in the inn, they had left and had been locked out. According to evidence of the preliminary hearing, when they returned in the wee small hours, they battered their way into the place and abstracted the whiskey. On this showing a charge of burglary was lodged against them and bail was fixed at $2,000 cash or $4,000 bond in each case.

Bob Bean, proprietor of The Gables, accused of grand theft, will appear for arraignment today in the superior court.

EDDIE CANTOR STARS IN ALA BABA GOES TO TOWN

Fun making Eddie Cantor and hit-making Twentieth Century Fox have combined their talents for the first time and really go to town as the comedy king of screen and radio stars in the most hi-de-hilarious, extrava-glorious entertainment either have ever made, "Ali Baba Goes to Town," featuring Tony Martin, Roland Young, June Lang, Louise Hovick and a tremendous cast, which opens at the Nevada Theatre.

The creators of "You Can't Have Everything", "Thin Ice," and "Wake Up and Live" set the sky as the limit to give Eddie Cantor the picture that tops anything he has ever done and marks the beginning of a new and important phase in his brilliant career.

"Ali Baba Goes to Town" is the most magnificent combination of colorful extravaganza, sidesplitting comedy, song hits, beautiful girls, exotic dances, brilliant dialogue and lavish sets in the history of fun.
